History is a series of accumulated imaginative inventions.
Looking at stuff that happens everyday as imaginative inventions.
Taking that experience and moving forward.
Figure 1-9. Information processing within the sensory register, working or short-term memory, and long-term memory includes complex coding, sorting, storing, and recall functions.
Developing interests and passions into something more.
A target fixedly connected to a urinal or toilet to attract the attention of human males.
Making a practice out of watching, and turning those observations into something more.
